Re: Ecclesiastical Trust – Formal Notice of Status & Jurisdiction

Be it known:

I, Jonathan Daniel Clements, Executor of a Private Ecclesiastical Trust, hereby give formal and irrevocable notice to the above-named Sheriff's Office and all associated personnel that:

1. This Trust is a non-public, non-corporate, and non-statutory ecclesiastical entity, fully governed by private divine jurisdiction, not subject to civil, federal, or corporate law.
2. All actions, property, and persons within this Trust's ambit are protected by ecclesiastical sovereignty and are not subject to licensing, regulation, seizure, or intervention by any government or agency lacking expressed voluntary submission.
3. Any assumption of authority by civil or public officials within the temporal domain of the Trustee must be considered void unless express, written, voluntary consent is documented under strict private ecclesiastical law.
4. This notice constitutes:
  - A formal revocation of any presumed public authority over Trustee, agents, or properties.
  - A binding jurisdictional declaration under ecclesiastical trust law.
  - Proof of notification and intent to preserve divine and private legal standing.

No notary or witness is required under ecclesiastical trust standards.
